Acknowledgements ........................................ xi
Foreword ................................................... xiii

Introduction and Overview .............................. 1
  The pathology of nationalism .......................... 3
  Choosing the future ................................... 4
  The necessity of democracy and law ................ 7
  The personal is political .............................. 8
  War is a disease: The case of Vietnam ............ 10
  The practice of medicine and the practice of citizenship  ... 12
  A personal journey ................................... 13
  About this book ........................................ 15
  Principles of global community and global citizenship: A synopsis ............................ 20

Chapter One: Choosing the Future ................... 27
  Where are we going? ................................... 28
  Where do we want to go? ............................ 30
  The practice of medicine and the practice of global citizenship ................................. 33
Pathogenesis: Why are we so self-destructive? .......... 35
Pathogenesis: Nationalism and warfare ................. 40
Democracy and international law ....................... 48
The rabbi’s son from Krakow ............................ 51
Choosing the future: Summary .......................... 53

Chapter Two: Axioms ........................................ 57
First Axiom: The map is not the territory ............... 58
Second Axiom: The map changes the territory ......... 60
Third Axiom: We choose our maps ..................... 63
Fourth Axiom: Good, bad, evil, important, and unimportant are in the eye of the beholder .......... 63
Fifth Axiom: Political leaders are not competent to determine the value of a human life ............. 65

Chapter Three: Paradigm Shift ............................ 70
Who are we? .............................................. 73
Pathology of the old paradigm ........................... 76
The new paradigm and human options .................. 79

Chapter Four: Principles of Global Community ...... 81
Principle 1 .................................................. 83
Principle 2 .................................................. 86
Principle 3 .................................................. 87
Principle 4 .................................................. 89
Principle 5 .................................................. 90
Principle 6 .................................................. 95
Principle 7 .................................................. 96
Principle 8 .................................................. 100
Principle 9 .................................................. 101
Principle 10 ................................................ 103
Principle 11 ............................................... 105
Principle 12 ............................................... 107
Principle 13 ............................................... 108
Chapter Five: The Case of Iraq

Principle 14

Principle 15

Principle 16

Principle 17

Principle 18

Principle 19

Principle 20

Chapter Five: The Case of Iraq

Saddam Hussein and the U.S. government before and after August 1990

The U.S. invasion of Panama, Iraq's invasion of Kuwait, and the 1991 Gulf War

Communication, scholars, the media, and propaganda for war

Economic sanctions and weapons of mass destruction

The U.S.-UK invasion of Iraq, March 2003

Democracy, the occupation, and the ongoing violence in Iraq

Terrorism and the destruction of Iraq

Responsibility for the destruction of Iraq

A way forward

Conclusion

Chapter Six: Principles of Global Citizenship

Principle 21

Principle 22

Principle 23

Principle 24

Principle 25

Principle 26

Principle 27

Principle 28

Principle 29
Principle 30 ................................................. 200
Winds of change ........................................ 203
The power of one ....................................... 204
Civil disobedience ................................. 206

Chapter Seven: Practicing Citizenship .............. 212
The global citizen as hero for our time ........... 213
Awareness .................................................. 214
Imagination and knowledge ..................... 217
A 35 percent solution and the game of global citizenship ............................................. 222
The basic building block of democracy ......... 224
The Parkhill Pulse ...................................... 227
The city as microcosm of the global community ....... 230
A Calgary Centre for Global Community ......... 234
The genius of citizenship .......................... 238

Chapter Eight: Prognosis .......................... 241
Your choice ............................................... 251

Bibliography ........................................... 253