EMERGING TECHNOLOGIES
IN DISTANCE EDUCATION

Edited by George Veletsianos
Issues in Distance Education

Series Editor: Terry Anderson

Distance education is the fastest-growing mode of formal and informal teaching, training and learning. Its many variants include e-learning, mobile learning, and immersive learning environments. The series presents recent research results and offers informative and accessible overviews, analyses, and explorations of current issues and the technologies and services used in distance education. Each volume focuses on critical questions and emerging trends, while also taking note of the evolutionary history and roots of this specialized mode of education and training. The series is aimed at a wide group of readers including distance education teachers, trainers, administrators, researchers, and students.

Series Titles

> A Designer's Log: Case Studies in Instructional Design
  by Michael Power

> Emerging Technologies in Distance Education
  edited by George Veletsianos

> Mobile Learning: Transforming the Delivery of Education and Training edited by Mohamed Ally

> Theory and Practice of Online Learning, second edition edited by Terry Anderson
Editor Acknowledgements

First, I would like to thank the chapter authors for contributing their valuable insights to this collection and for being willing to participate in this project.

I would also like to thank Athabasca University Press for their assistance, dedication, hard work, and support.

Special thanks also go to Terry Anderson, the series editor, who provided valuable guidance and assistance whenever I asked.

Finally, to all those individuals whose work and writings influenced my thinking, thank you for sharing your knowledge.