Index

access: distance education provider policies on, 46, 116–17, 439–40; effect of institutional collaboration on, 121; as factor of social justice, 46–47, 54–55, 57, 64–65, 66–67; to information, 136–37; and open educational resources, 184–85; and reducing drop-out rate, 468; and selecting learner technologies, 258; and technology, 301; and tuition fees, 208–9 accountability, 32, 272. See also quality assurance adaptive hypermedia (AH), 249 administrative services, 58, 68–69. See also management adult education theory, 290. See also lifelong learning Anadolu University, 181, 317
Assessment of Higher Education Learning Outcomes (AHELO), 331–32 Athabasca University (AU), 46, 116, 117, 302, 437–38, 439 attrition. See drop-out rate Ball, John, 40
behaviourism, 350, 359
benchmarking, 319
blended learning, 114–15, 181, 186–87, 205–6, 211, 388–89 blogs, 393
Cloudworks, 227
cognitivism, 350–51
collaborative filtering, 249
Community of Inquiry (CoI) framework, 134–35, 384, 387 classification computer-scripted discussion systems, 405–7 connectivism: advantages of, 250–51; course on, 226, 255; defined, 367; design for, 256–57; examples of, 367–68; impact on distance education research, 164; and OERs, 255; theory described, 137–38 constructivism, 358–61, 385–86 construct validity, 167–68 correspondence courses, 110, 209, 463 culture: and curriculum choices, 80–81; definitions of, 81–84; and development of e-learning, 423–24; and difficulty implementing distance education, 117, 180; effect on educational institutions, 345–46; effect on Internet, 79, 324, 347; impact on instructional design, 346–47, 355–58, 360; and learner preferences, 85–99; and learner support, 299–300; overview, 12–13; and quality assurance, 323–25; research on, 99–101; and Western bias, 76, 78, 88 debates, 90
depth learning, 429
digital divide, 205, 207–8, 230, 357 digital learners, 431–36 diploma mills, 121–22, 312–13 discourse analysis, 403–18 disruptive technology, 245–46, 247, 260 distance education (see also e-learning; online distance learning): access policies of providers of, 46, 116–17, 439–40; change of emphasis in digital age, 132–34; confused with on-line learning, 109, 110–11, 123; coordinating a research agenda for, 485–91; criticism of research on, 154–68, 177, 189, 479–80; Delphi study framework for, 1–5; demographics of learners, 422, 436–43; disagreement on terminology used in, 166–68, 176; economics of, 112–13, 116, 201–6; effect of globalization on, 119–20, 124–25; factors in growth of, 131–33; future research themes for, 123–24; generations of, defined by technology, 238–39; graduation rate, 460–62; history of, 110, 116–19, 122–23, 238–39; and inter-institutional collaborations, 120–22; maturation of research into, 151–55, 159; new providers of, 114–15; overview of research methods in, 15–16; overview of systems, 13–14; overview of theories and models, 14–15; and quality assurance, 120, 121–22, 125, 316–18, 328–29; study on impact of scholarly journals on, 5–8; suggested research themes for, 113–16; and systems dynamic method, 159, 160–63, 168; traditional research themes for, 111–13, 123 distributed community of practice (DCoP), 365 drop-out rate: ability to predict, 466–67; attitude toward at OUUK, 465–66; based on course selection, 476–78; effect of tuition increase on, 473–74; effect on students’ health, 474–75; and intervention, 298–99, 470–72, 476; methods of reducing, 467–73, 476; overview, 31–32; as persistent problem, 462–63; research on, 291–93; and technology, 464–65, 471–72

e-democracy, 363

educational policy, 186–87 educational systems, 78–79

e-learning: challenges in using technology, 228–30; and current range of technology for, 220–28; defined, 167, 218, 219; demographics of learners, 436–43; development of, 325, 423–24; and digital learners, 431–36; and learner characteristics, 428–31, 436; as model for online education, 133, 363; and retention, 478–79; and social change, 363–64; and technology, 113, 117, 133, 430; texts and approaches of, 219–20

e-mentoring, 89, 95–96

e-moderators, 135–36

ethics, 81, 144–45, 299, 466–67

European Network for Quality in Higher Education (ENQA), 315

Excelsior College, New York, 302

Exeter University, 61

Facebook, 257, 392, 394, 471–72 faculty/faculty support: clarification of terms, 269–73; and copyright issues, 187–88; and demands of technology, 267–68; and doubt about online education, 312–13; ideas for future research on, 283; impact on student outcomes, 281–82; institutional commitment to, 275–78; needs of, 278; overview, 21–23; quality assurance of, 333; survey of research on, 273–75; training of, 180, 182–83; types of, 279–81

FernUniversität, 116, 117, 437–38, 439, 441, 443

Finland, 62

game-based learning (GBL), 223–24

geoauging, 223

globalization: defined, 77; effect on distance education, 119–20, 124–25; and e-learning, 363, 423–24; as homogenizing process, 77–81; and importance of culture, 76; overview, 12

glocal phenomenon, 345

going, 46–47, 460–62

haptic technologies, 224

help seeking behaviours, 95–96

human capital theory, 198

hybridization, 77, 184 identity, 222, 356, 358. See also culture idioculture, 84
Indira Gandhi National Open University, 317 informal learning, 218, 223, 270–71 innovation, 20–21, 247, 251–54, 395 instructional design, 345–71; and assessment, 360–61; and constructivism, 359–60; early years of, 349–52; effect of culture on, 346–47, 355–58, 360; effect of neo-liberalism on, 361–64; and focus on learner, 359–61, 437; future considerations of, 368–71; history of research and practice, 178, 347–49; importance of military application for, 349, 354–55; modern challenges of, 364–65; and MOOCs, 367–68; overview, 26–28; recent history of, 355–57; and systems thinking, 352–53; and technology, 48, 223–27, 356–57, 365–66 instructional resources, 59, 69, 247–51, 258–59 instructional support, 59, 66–67, 69, 227–28, 254. See also faculty/faculty support intellectual property, 187–88 interaction: definition of, 382; future of, 394–97; history of, 382–83; ideas for research on quantitative analysis of, 416–18; importance of in ODL, 135–36; and Internet, 92, 94, 392; Markov chain analysis, 411–12; and open education resources, 390–92; overview, 28–29; quantitative content analysis of, 404–8; research into, 390; review of theories of, 385–89; and sequential analysis, 412–14; on social media, 392–93; social network analysis of, 408–11; and structural equation modelling, 414–16; and technology, 382–83, 389–94
International Network for Quality Assurance Agencies in Higher Education (INAAQHE), 316 Internet: effect of sociocultural context on, 79, 324, 347; how its changed distance education, 132–33; and interaction, 92, 94, 392; and learner support, 288; power of, 345 intervention studies, 298–99, 470–72, 476 Japan, 325
Knowledge production, 190–91, 359 language, 80, 88, 96–97 language learning, 97–99 leadership, 182–85, 190–92 learner analytics, 299 learner management systems (LMSs), 136–41, 142–43, 255–58 learner strategies, 95–96, 136 learner styles: defined by culture, 86–92, 93, 96–99; and digital learners, 431–36, 448; and lifelong learning, 430–31 learner support: extent of current services, 287–89; helping those without skills, 299–300; ideas for future research, 303–5; and intervention studies, 298–99, 470–72, 476; models for, 295–98; overview, 23–24; from peers, 301–3; research on drop-out rate, 291–93; research on learning theory, 289–91; and student satisfaction surveys, 294–95; and technology, 300–301, 302 learning analytics, 221, 227–28, 293, 301, 466 lifelong learning: characteristics of learners, 422, 428–31, 436–43; defined, 425, 428; ideas for future research, 446–49; L3F program, 330–31; need of systematic approach to, 424–26; and non-traditional students, 426–28; at open universities, 422–23; overview, 29–31; recent history of, 362–63, 364 Lifelong Learning for Farmers (L3F) program, 330–31 LMSs (learner management systems), 136–41, 142–43, 255–58 localization, 77, 81
management (see also faculty/faculty support): and copyright issues, 187–88; ideas for further research on, 190–92; and learner management systems, 136–41, 142–43, 255–58; and Online Journal, 188–89; overview, 17–18; quality assurance of, 333; recent research on leadership, 182–85; recent studies on, 176–81; and social justice, 48–49, 58, 68 Markov chain analysis, 411–12 mashups, 257
Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), 185 massive open online courses (MOOCs), 81, 226, 367–68, 391–92, 491

Index 505
McGreal, Rory, 121 mentoring, 89, 95–96, 302–3 mobile learning (m-learning), 222–23, 393–94 mobile phones, 118
MOOCs. See massive open online courses Mulder, Fred, 121
multiculturalism, 355–56
Multimedia Educational Resource for Learning and Online Teaching (MERLOT), 326 National Institute of Open Schooling, 318 neo-liberalism, 361–62
non-formal learning, 218, 223, 270–71 non-traditional students (NTS), 426–28 OERs. See open educational resources online distance learning (ODL) (see also massive open online courses): benefits of felt by students, 209–11; demand for, 75–76; ideas for research on, 141–45; industrialized form of, 352–53; models for, 134–41; research into cost of, 206–8; suggestions for research into economics of, 208–11; and teaching models, 138–41 Online Journal of Distance Learning Administration (OJDLA), 188–89 Online Teaching Infrastructure Matrix, 177–78 OpenCourseWare (OCW), 185 open educational resources (OERs): adaptability of, 255; and collaboration, 121; cost of, 207; described, 184–85; development of, 225–26; and drop-out rate, 470; extent of, 17; implications of, 230–31; and interaction, 390–92; and quality assurance, 326–27; and reusable learning objects, 248; suggestions for further research on, 230–31
Open Educational Resource University (OERU), 226, 326, 391 Open Universiteit of the Netherlands, 185 open universities, 181, 422–23, 439–40, 446–47.
See also specific universities
Open University (Japan), 325
Open University of China, 115, 312, 317
Open University of United Kingdom (OUUK): access policy, 46, 185, 208–9, 439; cost efficiency of, 204; drop-out rate at, 465–66, 476–78; graduation rate, 460–62; and learner support, 298–99; perceived benefits of education at, 19, 209–10; professional development at, 280; profile of students at, 437–38; retention at, 463, 464, 470–73; revised model for, 133; success of, 423; tuition increase at, 473–74; in US, 117
OUUK. See Open University of United Kingdom participatory evaluation, 51–54 partnerships, 120–22 path analysis, 415–16
pedagogical patterns, 225 pedagogical podcasting, 395 peer teaching, 250
peer-to-peer support, 301–3
Peer-to-Peer University, 226 Phoenix University, 117 pluralism, 356
podcasting, 395
privacy issues, 93
private-for-profit education, 50–51 professional development, 267–83; clarification of terms, 269–73; ideas for future research on, 283; impact on student outcomes, 281–82; importance of, 267–69; institutional support for, 275–77; lack of, at open universities, 181; overview, 21–23; survey of general research on, 273–75; types of, 279–81; understanding needs of faculty, 277–78 quality assurance, 311–35; assessment of, in online distance education, 328–29; cost of, 327–28; and dealing with pessimism about online education, 311–13; defined, 313–14; of distance education providers, 120, 121–22, 125; effect of culture on, 323–25; as factor of social justice, 55, 57–59, 65, 68–70; ideas for future research on, 334; of online courses, 274; of open educational resources, 326–27; outcomes approach to, 329–33; overview, 24–26; and professional development, 272; special challenges of online distance education, 316–18; standards for, 318–23, 334–35; standards for in face-to-face education, 314–16 quantitative content analysis (QCA), 404–8 Al-Quds Open University (QUO), 180–81 radio, 45
retention, 31–32, 463, 464, 470–73, 478–81 reusable learning objects (RLOs), 248 Second Life, 224, 367
self-pacing, 288
sequential analysis, 412–14
Skinner, B. F., 350
social contract, 56, 60, 66, 70 social environment, 92–96 social justice: and capabilities, 41–43; and e-learning, 363–64; factors involved in decision to implement, 44–45, 46–50; framework for audit on, 51–63; and growth of open universities, 422–23; guiding questions for audit on, 64–70; ideas for research on, 141–42; individual/societal concepts of, 39–44; and learner support, 300; and measuring outcomes, 60–62; at open universities, 439–40, 446–47; overview, 10–12; participatory evaluation of, 51–54; review of policy on, 54–56, 66; strategies for, 56–60 social media, 221–22, 227, 257, 280–81, 391–94, 471–72, 478 social network analysis (SNA), 408–11, 414 social networking, 280–81, 478 social presence, 93–94, 98, 416–17 software tools, 136–41, 143–44 Spaces for Knowledge Generation (SKG), 227 Spanish National University, 318 strategic planning, 182–85 structural equation modelling (SEM), 414–16, 417 student course reviews, 469 sustainability, 55, 57, 59–60, 65, 69–70 systems dynamic method, 159, 160–63, 168 systems thinking, 352–53 Taylor, Frederick W., 350 teaching presence, 134–36, 359, 360–61 technology (see also specific technology), 217–33: approaches for selecting, 258–59; approaches to innovation, 251–54; challenges in implementing, 228–30; cost of, 179, 202–3, 205, 206–8, 209, 258; current range of, 220–28; and definition of culture, 84; design process of LMSs, 255–58; and digital divide, 117–18, 125; and digital learners, 431–36; disruptive, 245–46, 247, 260; and drop-out rates, 464–65, 471–72; effect on instructional design, 48, 223–27, 356–57, 365–66; effect on research, 226–27; as focus of e-learning, 113, 115, 117, 133, 430; as focus of professional development, 267–68, 273–82; hard and soft, 241–43, 245, 253–54; history of, 217–18, 220, 238–39, 354–55; and history of interaction, 382–83, 389–94; implications for, 230–31, 259–61; and instructional support, 227–28, 254; and learner support, 300–301, 302; and management, 179–80, 184; and mobile learning, 222–23; models for assessing, 243–44; nature of evolutionary change in, 240–41; overview, 19–21; research studies into, 114, 116; selecting for learning resources, 247–51, 258–59; and social justice, 44–45, 67–68; and software tools, 136–41; suggestions for further research, 143–44, 228–32; and systems theories, 246–47; terminology of, 218–19; understanding the meaning of, 239–40; and virtual learning communities, 365–68; weaknesses of, 79, 312 technology-enhanced learning (TEL), 219 television, 117
Twitter, 227, 392, 393, 394
UKOU. See Open University of United Kingdom
UNESCO, 120, 121, 201
United Kingdom Open University. See Open University of United Kingdom (OUUK)
University of Maryland University College (UMUC), 120 University of Phoenix, 47 virtual learning communities (VLC), 365–66, 367 Virtual University for the Small States of the Commonwealth, 318 virtual worlds, 223–24
Washington State University, 302
Web 2.0, 180, 280–81
WebCT, 136
World of WarCraft, 223