CONTENTS

LIST OF ILLUSTRATIONS xi
PREFACE xiii

Introduction: The Dialogical Structure of Self-Fashioning 3
Van Gogh Old and New: Reading the Letters as Literature 3
What Is Literature Anyway? Cultural Codes and Timeless Truths 6
Bakhtin, Dialogue, and the Self Interrupted 9
Embodied Intentions: The Textual Dynamics of Self-Fashioning 13
Conclusion: Van Gogh’s “Double-Voiced Discourse” 15

1 The Painterly Writer 19
Dissolving Boundaries: Word-Painting and the Sister Arts 21
Ideal Space, Existential Time 27
Drawing and Painting: From Morality to Aesthetics 32
Thinking About Colour and Seeing Beyond It 44
Conclusion: Dialogical Means and Personal Ends 47

2 Binaries, Contradictions, and “Arguments on Both Sides” 51
Contradiction, Paradox, and the Shaping of Commitment 52
Half-Measures and Negative Contrasts 57
Deconstructing the Binaries 64
The Sower: A Dialogue of Life and Death 70
Conclusion: Contradiction and the Quest for Meaning 76

doi:10.15215/aupress/9781771990455.01
3 Reading Van Gogh’s Letter-Sketches  79
  - The Letter-Sketches and the Letters  79
  - Narrative Dimensions  87
  - Representing the Sacred  113
  - Homo Viator  128
  - Conclusion: Enhancing the Text  141

4 Imagination and the Limits of Self-Fashioning  145
  - Open Sea and Enchanted Ground: The Perils of Commitment  146
  - Imagination: “Impossible Windmills”  151
  - Imagination: “That’s Rich, That’s Poetry”  156
  - Safe Enough to Let Go: On Perseverance and Spontaneity  159
  - Conclusion: Managing the Dialogue  163

Conclusion: Envoi  165

Notes  173
Index  179